Licut, and Acting Gov. Thorne has granted a parden to Johnson Hatfield, one of the survivors of the noted Harfleid-McCov feud, of twenty years see in Eastern Kentucky and West Virginia, who has been an inmale of the State prison here for four years past under life sentence for murder. The act of the Lieutenant Governor extends to the crime for which he stood convicted, and all charges growing out of the feud, killings of Alfred McCoy, Toibert McCoy, Farmer McCoy, Rondolph McCoy, Jr. and Coleman McCoy," killings which were the outcome of the fend war of Pixe county, Ky., and Logan county,

W. Va., in 1887 and 1888. The reasons given Acting Governor for his action in the case are the falling health, according to the prison physician, of Hatfield, his good behavior during confinement, amdavits of both Hatfields and McCovs that the convicted man was not a party to the midnight raid and murder of the McCoys but was ten miles away, the petition of ten members of the jury Hatfield's premise that he will not again reside in the State of Kentucky and the expressed belief of the Acting Governor that his action will restore the prisoner to two children and redeem him.

The pardon was secured through the intercession of E. M. Hatfield, of Winons, W. Va., a brother of Johnson Hatfield, who was but a child of ten years when the murder of the McCoys occurred, but who was worked untiringly to se cure the release of his bro her. Mr Hatfield came here from his home the first of the week just closed
